

WHAT IS CLAIMED IS:

1. A handle cover for a golf club comprising:

A hollow cylindrical body fitted around a handle portion of a golf club in a tight condition:

5 An end cap closed on an upper end of said cylindrical body: and

Characterized by said cylindrical body having an elastic member to let said cylindrical body provided with comparatively good elasticity to be 10 easily expanded so that a user herself/himself can it fit around a golf club.

2. The handle cover for a golf club as claimed in Claim 1, wherein said elastic member is a lengthwise wrinkled section formed integral on 15 the cylindrical body.

3. The handle cover for a golf club as claimed in Claim 1, wherein said elastic member consists of a lengthwise opening formed in said cylindrical body, and an elastic element of the same
20 shape as said cylindrical body overlapped around said cylindrical body and then sewn together with said cylindrical body.

4. The handle cover as claimed in Claim 3, wherein said elastic element is an elastic band.

25